Also, homeowners and other property owners can simply allow Willow Creek Outdoor Management to take care of the lawn maintenance for their home or property year-around. Their basic lawn maintenance package includes lawn mowing, weed eating, edging, spraying flower beds for weeds and hedge/bush trimming. Add-on services include: lawn fertilization, dethatching, aeration, top dressing, and overseeding. Their lawn maintenance program consists of at least 26 visits per calendar year.

For those who are wondering whether landscaping projects can be started during the winter season, it is indeed possible because Georgia has winters that are mild, which means there are no extremely low temperatures or major snowfalls. Nevertheless, Georgia is not like Florida, which means that winter can be tough on lawns. Many of the usual types of turfgrass used in Evans will become dormant during winter. These turfgrasses include Zoysia, St. Augustine, Bermuda, Centipede, and Bahia. For lawns with these types of grasses, it is vital to be more careful with lawn care during the winter months. That is why it is usually a good idea to get the services of professionals who are experienced and knowledgeable on how to care for the lawn at any time of the year.

For those who want a better looking yard, Willow Creek Outdoor Management is capable of providing hardscaping services. This is because well-designed hardscapes can significantly improve the aesthetics of the yard and the whole property. Hardscaping may also be used to address certain issues, such as elevation challenges, erosion, standing water, and other problems that may affect the functionality of the outdoor spaces. Their hardscaping services include outdoor fireplaces, stepping stones, retaining walls, fire pits and paver walkways and patios.

Started in 2012, Willow Creek Outdoor Management is a locally owned and operated business in Harlem, GA, that has evolved through the years into a top provider of professional hardscaping and landscaping services in Evans, Grovetown, and the entire Augusta river area.
