

Black Helm Entertainment Unveils New Interview With The Author Page

November 23, 2015

November 23, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Black Helm Entertainment announced today that they have unveiled a new segment to the Links & Contact page of their Team Star Angel site. Team Star Angel is a site dedicated to two objectives. One is the promotion of the "Star Angel" pentalogy, a five book sci-fi series, featuring information, links and extras associated with the pentalogy. The second objective centers around promoting a sense of betterment and positive action, starting with the individual and pushing into their immediate environment and into the world at large. This second objective is driven by themes in the books. According to Philip Jepsen, CEO of Black Helm, the new "Interview With The Author" segment will feature questions from readers and participants in the Team Star Angel mission, which the author of the "Star Angel" pentalogy, David G McDaniel, will answer.

"It's a way for our readers and supporters to interact with David," says Mr. Jepsen. "It's not uncommon for blogs or other such pages to offer this, but here, rather than it being an un-moderated, or even moderated, free-for-all, questions are posted through a submission form, giving David time to read and respond. This allows the question and answer to be posted simultaneously, even if it takes a few days to get an answer. That way you won't have a question hanging out there in space wondering whether or not it will get picked up."

The stated mission of Team Star Angel is to encourage an environment of prosperity through intention, starting with the individual and spreading a positive force into the world. In short form the mission of the Team is to make it better. "Star Angel", on which this is based, is a series of five books, a pentalogy, with a sci-fi setting that begins on modern Earth. According to the site, "Star Angel" is the tale of a teenage girl catapulted from a normal life on Earth to an alien planet in the midst of war. Her journey to self-discovery, to finding the hero within, sets the pace. Along the way she draws to herself a cast of characters who come to believe in her, even as her determination and resolution win the day.

"We've already rolled out the Interview segment with a sort of soft launch," says Mr. Jepsen, "and we have been getting feedback from visitors to the site. Questions and answers are already being posted, and so far it looks like this format is going to work quite well."

Interested parties can contact Mr. Jepsen directly by email, or by submitting questions directly on the Team Star Angel site.

###

For more information about Black Helm Entertainment, contact the company here: Black Helm Entertainment Philip Jepsen 727-224-1832 info@blackhelm.com Clearwater, FL 33755

Black Helm Entertainment

The mission of Black Helm Entertainment is multi-pronged. Currently Black Helm's focus is on the world of publishing, both e- and audio books, as well as printed copies.

Website: <http://www.teamstarangel.com/>

Email: info@blackhelm.com

Phone: 727-224-1832

