Cape Coral, Florida based company Phoenix Treasures LLC has announced that their Phoenix French Press coffee brewer has arrived in company warehouses, and is ready to ship to consumers. Received on November 20, 2015, the product is designed from stainless steel and glass. The company has expressed satisfaction that they have the coffee brewer in stock and ready to ship for the holidays.

"Imagine the aroma and flavor that you'll get from this one of a kind coffee brewer," states Robert King, spokesperson for the company. "We are pleased to finally be ready to launch and ship our French press, and just in time for the upcoming holiday season."

The coffee appliance is available on the Amazon marketplace, and according to King, "It will make the perfect Christmas gift for those who already have everything." He states that they have been working on getting the product ready for launch, and ensuring that they have an adequate stock to keep up with holiday demand.

The French press features a two screen press to prevent grounds getting through and into the cup, and the company states that it is durable and easy to clean and use. As part of the product launch, they are also offering a bonus of two replacement stainless steel screens and a measuring spoon, along with the press, at no additional charge.

King states that they want customers to enjoy the press and offering bonuses helps to ensure that they have what they need to continue enjoying their coffee through the holidays. The press can be seen at <http://www.amazon.com/dp/B010U4EL0U>.
