December 19, 2022 -
New York City Divorce lawyer Juan Luciano (https://divorcelawfirmnyc.com/what-is-the-difference-between-family-law-attorney-and-divorce-lawyer/) releases a new article explaining the differences between a family law attorney and a divorce lawyer. The lawyer adds that while both specialize in legal issues related to family and marriage, they have different areas of expertise and may handle different types of cases.

According to the New York City Divorce lawyer, ?A family law attorney is a legal professional who handles a wide range of cases related to family law, including divorce, child custody and support, adoption, and domestic violence. They are trained to handle all aspects of family law, from the initial filing of documents to the final resolution of a case.?

The lawyer explains further that a divorce lawyer is a legal professional who specifically focuses on divorce cases. They may handle all aspects of a divorce, from negotiating the terms of the divorce to representing clients in court.

The updated content on attorney Juan Luciano's page delves into the specific areas of expertise for each type of legal professional and provides information on when it may be appropriate to seek the services of a family law attorney or a divorce lawyer. It also includes valuable tips on how to choose the right legal representation for your specific needs.

In addition, the page also includes information on the role of mediators in divorce proceedings and the benefits of utilizing mediation as an alternative to traditional courtroom litigation. Mediation is a form of alternative dispute resolution that allows divorcing couples to come to an agreement on the terms of their divorce with the help of a neutral third party. It can be a less stressful and more cost-effective option for resolving disputes during a divorce.

Lastly, the lawyer emphasizes the importance of having a skilled divorce lawyer when it comes to matters like child support and custody. Having an experienced lawyer may be able to help the client explore their options and make the best decision that will benefit the family.
