Tree Service Fresno Talks About Costly Mistakes Done By Homeowners On Their Landscapes

December 21, 2022

December 21, 2022 -
Fresno, California ? A recent research done by the Tree Service Fresno team on the landscapes in Fresno and its suburbs, discovered that 40% of these landscapes had mistakes that would cost homeowners a lot of money to rectify.

?Tree Service Fresno's recent research was about finding out how the landscapes in Fresno and the suburbs were doing,? said the CEO. ?The findings were not anything close to good as out of every 100 homes, 40 had poorly done landscapes. To make the landscapes better, it would cost homeowners a lot of money.?

The CEO then revealed the mistakes mainly done by homeowners when preparing their landscapes and the possible impacts.

?Good landscaping is the key to making the homestead attractive,? said the CEO. ?Therefore, when preparing the landscape, homeowners go for the trees that fit with their design. They want to see an immediate change in the landscape. They forget putting into consideration factors like what the mature version of the tree will look like, the root system of the tree, and the soil volume in the space. Some trees have roots that can extend as far as 100 meters. If such a tree is planted near a construction, in the end, the building will be damaged and it can even collapse. Others outgrow the space and after 3-5 years they have to be removed.?

?The other mistake made by homeowners is using fake tree care companies to prepare their landscapes,? said the CEO. ?Homeowners are attracted by their cheap pricing, not knowing that they are expensive compared to good tree care companies. They lack the required knowledge of preparing a landscape. Their greed for money will, however, not allow them to openly tell homeowners they aren?t competent enough to work on the landscape. This directly translates to poorly done landscapes. Afterward, the homeowner will have to look for tree care specialists to work on the landscape yet again.?

The CEO noted that poor care of trees after planting also participated in unsuccessful landscaping.

?Some homeowners leave the landscape immediately after planting,? said the CEO. ?They don?t water the trees and no matter how good the planting was done, this leads to the failure of the whole process. Also, there are very many other services required after planting, including pruning, trimming, and fertilization. Failure to do these procedures or doing them wrongly leads to unhealthy trees and shrubs, which translates to bad landscaping.?

The CEO revealed that the company will continue sharing more about tree care mistakes done by homeowners.

?Things are changing,? said the CEO. ?This means that more tree care mistakes will continue emerging. Tree Service Fresno will use its media room, to share every mistake found and many other helpful tree care information.?

The CEO noted that the only solution to all the mistakes was using good tree care companies to work on the landscapes.

?The answer to all the mistakes leading to bad landscaping and money wastage is using a good tree care company,? said the CEO. ?A good tree care company will know the right trees to plant on the landscape, when and how to plant, advise the homeowner on what he/she needs to do for the procedure to become a success, and offer all the other services needed in the process. Luckily, for homeowners in Fresno and its suburbs, Tree Service Fresno is just a call or a text away.?
