Brooklyn pedestrian accident lawyer Samantha Kucher (https://www.rrklawgroup.com/car-accident-lawyer/new-york-city-pedestrian-injury-lawyer/) releases a new article that discusses the leading causes of pedestrian accidents in NYC. The lawyer mentions that New York is considered to be a pedestrian-friendly city with some of the highest rates of pedestrian traffic in the country.

?According to recent data, pedestrian accidents are on the rise in New York City, with thousands of individuals injured or killed each year. These accidents can have devastating consequences, including serious injuries, lost wages, and emotional trauma," says the Brooklyn pedestrian accident lawyer.

When a pedestrian is hit by a vehicle, the consequences can be severe. Common injuries include broken bones, head injuries, and spinal cord injuries, which can lead to ongoing medical treatment and rehabilitation. In the worst cases, pedestrian accidents can result in death.

Attorney Samantha Kucher adds that there are many reasons pedestrian accidents happen in the city. These include speeding, distracted driving, driver fatigue, and aggressive driving. It can also include drug-impaired driving, alcohol-impaired driving, and failure to yield the right-of-way.

In the article, attorney Kucher explains how drivers often cause pedestrian accidents. But there are also instances when pedestrians cause the accident. Every pedestrian on New York City's streets should be familiar with the city's basic pedestrian laws.

The accident attorney also states that a motor vehicle accident involving a pedestrian can cause serious injuries and even fatalities. No matter how severe the impact is, injuries can still be devastating and may last a lifetime.

The lawyer enumerates the common injuries suffered by victims of pedestrian accidents in the city. This includes compound fractures, crushed bones, traumatic brain injuries, internal bleeding, paralysis, amputation, post-traumatic stress disorder, and wrongful death.

Lastly, attorney Samantha Kucher says that it is very important to seek the help of a pedestrian accident lawyer if someone has been the victim of a pedestrian accident. Having a skilled attorney may be able to help the victim receive the compensation they deserve.
