

Lexington Tree Experts Encourage Residents to Request Tree Care Emergencies via Phone Calls

December 28, 2022 -

Lexington, Kentucky ? A company that has been devoted to delivering tree care services on time for so long now, Lexington Tree Service Experts made an announcement earlier today prompting tree owners to place their emergency service requests via a phone number. According to the CEO, phone calls elicit a quicker response compared to other means of communication.

?A little delay in emergency delivery may cause more harm or even lead to tree(s) loss,? explained the CEO. ?It's thus judicious to make emergency tree care requests through a phone call. This is because the phone calls will be picked up immediately, while it may take more time to reply to emails and website requests.?

The CEO revealed that the phone calls will be picked up by the Lexington Tree Expert's management. He added that the phone number will be active on a 24-7 schedule.

"Phone calls made will be received by the company's management," said the CEO. "They will also pass the requests on to the applicable platoon. Also, the company phone number will be active 24 hours a day. Therefore, tree owners can make the call anytime the need emerges. Don?t wait for the next day to call.?"

According to the CEO, phone calls are also more effective because everyone can make them without much struggle.

"In an era where the internet has taken over everything," said the CEO, "it is easy to assume that everyone can use the internet. However, this is not always the case. There are still many homeowners that cannot access the internet. Mostly because they lack smartphones and laptops or don't know how to operate them."

"Lexington Tree Experts remain unbeaten when it comes to understanding people's conditions," said the CEO. "Therefore, with or without a smartphone, you can still reach out to the company effectively. All you need is the company's contact number, a small feature phone, and airtime to save your trees."

The CEO made it clear that homeowners will be given a free quotation after calling.

"After explaining the emergency service required for the operation," said the CEO, "homeowners will be given a free quotation. This will help them get an idea of the amount they will expect to spend on the service."

The CEO also revealed that Lexington Tree Experts had purchased several transport machines for quick emergency deliveries.

"To ensure that no time is wasted looking for transportation," said the CEO, "Lexington Tree Experts recently added additional transport machines, this time only for emergency service delivery. These machines will always be kept ready and in good condition. This will help to ensure that once the homeowners' emergency calls are received, they are handled quickly and that no time is wasted trying to repair machines that would have been done previously. Also, the company has added veritably numerous tools and equipment. This is to ensure that no emergency request is kept waiting. With enough tools, workers now can handle multiple procedures simultaneously."

Lexington Tree Experts' CEO stated that the company will take every request for tree care service seriously.

"Lexington Tree Experts will prioritize all tree care service requests heavily," said the CEO. "Therefore, homeowners in Lexington and its suburbs don't have to worry about late delivery of other tree services. This goes for other non-emergency requests, including normal tree trimming and tree pruning."
