

Dandenong Conveyancer Registers With Trustpilot to Build Customer Trust

December 30, 2022

December 30, 2022 -
LEAD Conveyancing Dandenong, a conveyancing company that operates in Dandenong and across Victoria, was happy to announce its recent act of signing up on Trustpilot, one of the well-known online customer review websites worldwide. The move is to let its clients know that its operations are legitimate and has a licence to do conveyancing services not just in Victoria but also across other states of Australia. For more information about LEAD Conveyancing Dandenong, visit their official website.

By now, the company has received five reviews that prove its staff?s professionalism and knowledge about conveyancing based on the statements of its clients. Some even said they would happily recommend the company to their acquaintances if they could. They expect to receive more reviews before the end of the year as they currently have many clients from various parts of Victoria. They will ensure favourable reviews by delivering excellent service to their clients.

The most recent feedback came from a client that bought a property in South Yarra, Melbourne. She stated how professional and responsive the company is in dealing with her enquiries. ?I had Trinh and her team help me buy the house I always wanted in South Yarra. They are very responsive, which made me worry less about the transaction. I had many questions in the middle of the process, and I always wanted detailed clarification on everything. Trinh was very patient and professional in answering my questions. I appreciate their efforts as a team. I will hire them again for my future property transactions.?

The conveyancing firm's reason for joining Trustpilot is to gain people's trust across the state where they operate. They want to inform people that they are a legitimate and capable firm regarding property conveyancing matters. Most of its staff believe that joining online customer review websites is one of the best ways to show that they are confident in their service quality. Signing up with Trustpilot shows they are not afraid of being criticised by their previous clients, and they prefer to receive mixed reviews than to acquire nothing at all.

Licensed Conveyancing Solicitor Trinh Thai, the Legal Director and Founder of LEAD Conveyancing Dandenong, said how happy she is in signing up her company with the Danish online review platform. ?This latest activity of our company makes me delighted every time I think of obtaining more positive reviews from clients in the future. I am confident that most of the feedback would benefit us as I am confident with my colleagues. They always work hard, especially when under pressure.?

The company hopes to receive more inspiring reviews before the year ends. Its staff believe they deserve recognition and praise because of their unmatched efforts in every transaction they handle. They always leave their comfort zones and go out of their way to provide excellent conveyancing services to their clients.
