January 18, 2023 -
Outdoor lighting company Blingle Premier Lighting is inviting Southwest Denver homeowners, business owners, and venue owners to find out more about how it can help them create a unique lighting experience to show off their property for any chosen season, event, or holiday.

The company boasts a crew of experienced designers and on-site technicians who can handle every aspect of the planning and installation process. At the Southwest Denver location of the nationwide lighting services franchise, the design process is guided by Lighting Designer Mike Stejskal. The day-to-day operations are overseen by General Manager Jessi Nelson, a veteran of the entertainment industry with over 7 years of experience at the Colorado Convention Center.

Customers can just sit back and relax while their home, venue, or place of business gets immaculately set up and decorated by the company?s lighting experts. Its wide range of lighting services includes holiday lighting, landscape, and patio lighting, permanent lighting, event lighting, commercial lighting, and more.

To ensure that its products meet the customer?s expectations, Blingle only utilizes professional-grade lighting products and technology in its proposed designs. This means that the lights shine brighter for longer while making efficient use of energy. The carefully selected hardware is paired with state-of-the-art software visualization technology that gives customers a sneak peek of how their property will look once everything is set up. Mike will be available along every step of the process to listen to the client?s feedback and to make design suggestions based on his extensive field experience.

The LED/RGB products the company uses in its workflow are some of the highest quality items of their kind on the market, offering more than double the lumen brightness of its closest competitors. The company is so confident in its installations that it offers clients a No Lights Out Guarantee, sending a specialist out to the client?s site within 48 hours to repair or replace a light if it goes out.

Blingle Premier Lighting has a battle-tested six-step project implementation process that ensures each client?s needs, including the smallest details, are fully met and the work is done right the first time. It begins with a virtual or in-person design consultation where customers are introduced to its complete repertoire of lighting capabilities. Mike will quiz the customer to learn more about the kind of look and ambiance they are going for and then provide them with a digital, visualized representation of their property which shows how the finished installation will look like.

Next, once the design elements are defined, the company will use on-site photos to create a computer-based lighting demo. At this stage of the process, customers can give feedback and request design edits. Once the design is finalized, the company will create a written proposal that includes price estimates and a detailed list of the required services. After the proposal is accepted, the staff at Blingle Premier Lighting will send over a formal contract agreement and schedule the installation.

The installation will begin as promised, on the scheduled day and time. Customers don?t have to be present on the property while the installation is underway. All the work performed by its experienced lighting technicians is backed up by workmanship warranties and product warranties. The company will help clients with any maintenance tasks while they are under contract, for no additional charge.

Blingle was born when founder Mike Marlow turned his passion for creating ornate Christmas light decorations into a full-fledged exterior lighting solutions business. Today, Blingle has franchisees all over the nation that help set up lighting at everything from events such as corporate parties and weddings to permanently installed home and landscape lighting.

As Southwest Denver Colorado's premier outdoor lighting company, Blingle Premier Lighting has received positive feedback from local residents. One of the reviews on its Google Business Profile, where it has a perfect 5-star overall rating, says, ?Great company! Great communication, professionalism, and attention to detail. Could not be happier!?
