McHenry Roofing, a company based in Baltimore, MD, has recently published a blog post that explains the various types of shingles or roofing materials that are best for homes in the Baltimore, Maryland area. Typically, asphalt shingles, wood shingles, slate shingles, and metal roofing have been found to be suitable for homes in the area. Each of these types have their own repair needs but it is the tile roofs and metal roofs that are the more costly to repair although they can last longer and are more attractive. Asphalt shingles are considered to be the best in the market for the area, particularly for pitched roofs because of their weather resistance and cost effectiveness.

Joseph Conley, owner of McHenry Roofing, says, "There are various types of roofing materials, including slate, tile, metal and wood. They each have their own repair requirements. Tile and metal roofs are more expensive to repair. However, they can be beautiful and last longer. Slate roofs require special techniques and skills. Wood shingles attract insects and animals, which can be detrimental to your home. Metal roofs are also available in various styles. Some metal roofs come with a 50-year manufacturer warranty. Metal roofs can be more expensive to repair than other roofs, but they can save you money on energy costs and insurance.?

McHenry Roofing is committed to provide the best quality roof shingle installations and repair, ensuring long lasting protection for the home. Homeowners would be able to select from various kinds of pitched, asphalt shingle roof installation or replacement. Their roofing experts are considered to be master craftsmen in the installation of both classic and modern roofing systems. They will make sure that the roof is appropriately sealed and ventilated to provide the thermal advantages of having an energy efficient shingled roof.

For homeowners and other property owners who want a low-maintenance and durable roofing system, the metal roof offers this kind of choice. With metal roofs, homeowners have a variety of choices with regards to color, style, and finishes, allowing them to match their personal preferences and styles.
