Colony 123 Quick Print LLC, a company based in East Orange, NJ, is pleased to announce that they are now offering vinyl stickers, vinyl labels, custom design labels, and transfers for T-shirts. A vinyl sticker or vinyl label is printed on white vinyl material, which is also called PVC, and are typically a better choice compared to paper stickers. Heat transfers for T-shirts offer one of the easiest ways to print T-shirts. Clinton Robinson from Colony 123 Quick Print says, "Why waste the time visiting your printer when online help is at hand? We can bring you the one-stop shop for all your printing needs and more. Our company helps you capitalize on the advantages afforded by the digital age. We assure affordability, flexibility and profitability like no other online print shop."

Vinyl stickers offer several advantages. First of all, vinyl stickers are available in hundreds of different vivid colors, which allows a business to really customize their labels. They are also easy to clean, unlike paper stickers, which means they are suitable for ensuring that things are sanitary. And unlike paper stickers, vinyl stickers are durable and strong, lasting for five to 10 years, especially with UV and fade protection. They can be used both indoors and outdoors because they don't absorb water. And they don't get torn when they are removed, unlike paper stickers.

While vinyl stickers or labels are more expensive than paper stickers, they are often preferred because of their durability and their being completely waterproof. For those situations where the sticker is only needed for a short time, paper stickers may be preferred. Paper stickers may also be preferred for packaging seals because they can be torn off easily. But for most purposes, vinyl stickers and labels are frequently used.

Colony 123 Quick Print LLC now also offers custom design labels for various business purposes. This is important because labels are typically used for brand identification, and they are often used as labels for products and on shipping boxes. Clients can order custom design labels either as cut-to-size or roll labels. Roll labels are the preferred option for companies that label their products in bulk, either manually or by using a dispenser. These custom design labels can be provided in matte, gloss, or high-gloss finish.

For the T-shirt industry, Colony 123 Quick Print LLC can now provide transfers for T-shirts. These transfers allow for high quality prints. For companies providing T-shirts for companies and other organizations, they can also help with the printing of logos, emblems, and patches.
