Revival is a Kernersville, NC company that makes popular soy products for menopause relief. It?s proven to be a creative food and beverage concept for the company that has them experiencing greater success faster than those that started the company ever anticipated. Much of Revival Product Inc?s success can be traced to its unique soy-based shakes which come in a variety of flavors and options. These tasty shakes when combined with the potential health benefits that consuming soy may offer, have made this fast-growing company?s shakes a very hot product.

The company founder, Suzanne Tabor, says, ?Many people realize that soy is thought to be healthy for them. The problem is, most of those people do not like the taste, so they avoid consuming it. Well with our soy shakes that should no longer be a problem for them. Our customers that purchase and drink our shakes get the best of both worlds. That?s the health benefits that are thought to come from consuming soy and the satisfaction of drinking a smooth and tasty beverage.?

Tabor went on to say that those who go to their website to check out the company?s delicious soy shakes are usually very surprised to see how many different flavors they offer. These flavors are not dull either and go way beyond that of more traditional flavors. Examples include Revival Product Inc?s Banana Breakfast Protein Shake which has touches of vanilla, almond, cinnamon, and banana. She says people have described consuming this shake to her as something akin to drinking a fancy dessert. There is also the Chocolate Daydream 20g Soy Shake which is described on the company?s website as ?Delightfully rich and decadent sweet cocoa combines with the supposed nutrition of soy for a velvety smooth shake that?s sure to ease the most relentless chocolate craving.? The company founder added that their shakes even offer options that allow them to be tailored to meet the different dietary requirements of those that consume them. Such as someone that is on a weight loss regimen being able to choose versions that are sweetened by Fructose, Sucralose, or Unsweetened. The positive feedback she has received from customers regarding their shakes being versatile has her and her team looking to add even more choices for each shake flavor very soon.

The company founder also pointed out that they go to great lengths to help their customers get the maximum soy benefit from the shakes they drink. This is accomplished through the meticulous concentration process Revival Products Inc uses to extract the highest number of beneficial isoflavones from soybeans. Their precise extraction process focuses on the heart of each soybean which is the location of the highest percentage of isoflavones in this type of edible bean. They believe that having a higher concentration of isoflavones in their smooth and tasty soy shakes will lead to customers getting better results, even with lower soy intake.

Those that have tried Revival Products Inc?s shakes and other offerings often leave very favorable reviews of the soy-based food and beverage items they consumed. Fariba K. stated, ?Revival shakes have helped me crave carbs and sugar less during the day. They seem to fill me up and keep me going all day. They taste great. I have really come to love them, and I am so thankful that my nutritionist/dietitian recommended these products to me.? Rose D. proclaimed, ?I enjoy using these products because they taste great, are filling, and I know and feel good about the fact that they are healthy for me. When I first tried one of my friend?s shakes, I was pleasantly surprised by how smooth and tasty the shakes were. I was also impressed by the taste of some of the other company soy treats that I sampled.?

More about the use of soy for hot flashes and other potential health benefits of drinking the company?s shakes can be viewed on Revival Products Inc?s website.
