CWDSC provides help to businesses in connecting with their target customers through search engine optimization or SEO. This allows the business to benefit from the huge number of searches made by people in the US, which is about 10 billion distinct searches every month. And 40 percent of those searches are for business establishments that are located in a particular neighborhood or area. That is why CWDSC offers local SEO services. It makes sense for a business to focus on potential customers within the area as studies have shown that people who are searching for local businesses online are typically ready to make a purchase. Approximately 50 percent of those who use their smartphone for the search visit a local establishment within a day and about 34 percent of those who use a tablet will visit a local business within the day.

To complement their local SEO services, CWDSC can also help clients develop a lead generating machine with their websites. This is the online equivalent of the sales funnel that all business owners and marketers are aware of. The funnel requires a constant source of prospects and in digital marketing, this comes from website visitors who are motivated enough to perform a certain action. To provide this service, CWDSC can perform various tasks for the client, such as: website design; content writing; email sequence writing; lead funnel; reputation building and management; PPC set up and management; and search engine optimization.

The first step to be taken will be to find out those keywords that would be proper and profitable for the client's business. Next, they will either build the website or make the necessary changes to an existing site, while taking into consideration the chosen keywords. They will then optimize the website and then take care of the business' reputation and ensure that it is not damaged. And then they will perform off-page SEO tasks using the keywords that were determined to be the most appropriate and suitable for the company's products and services.

Initiated in 2008 by Jack Lombardi, CWDSC is a top search engine optimization and web design company in Chicago and offers its services to other key cities in the USA.
