Miami personal injury lawyer David H. Charlip (https://charliplawgroup.com/) releases a new article explaining the costs of a personal injury in Miami. The lawyer explains that being injured in an accident can result in tens of thousands if not millions of dollars in medical expenses and other costs. Most individuals do not have enough savings to cover these kinds of costs after an accident.

?It can sometimes feel like the law favors the major banks, hospital groups, pharmaceutical giants, and multinational corporations, with all of that wealth and influence at their disposal. These companies may indeed have armies of lawyers and unlimited resources on their side, but the law is the same for everyone. In fact, a number of laws are written specifically to protect the interests of consumers from deceptive or heavy-handed tactics of big business,? says the Miami personal injury lawyer.

The lawyer explains that injuries sustained in an accident can lead to medical bills and other expenses in excess of tens of thousands of dollars. These costs can be overwhelming for many people, who may not have the funds to pay them. Personal injury laws allow victims to hold the responsible party accountable for their actions.

Attorney David H. Charlip states that personal injury cases in Florida are governed under Title XLV. These statutes provide guidance on negligence, duties of care, and limitations, as well as how to recover compensation. When an accident is caused by negligence, a victim can claim compensation for certain damages.

The lawyer states that personal injury cases can be settled without going to court if the victim and defendant are able to agree to a fair settlement. If a fair settlement is not possible, it's important to retain a skilled lawyer who can protect the victim's rights.

According to attorney Charlip, ?While many personal injury accidents are covered under insurance, victims cannot trust that the insurance settlement they are offered after an accident is the maximum one they are legally entitled to. Large insurance companies, as very profitable companies, are notorious for shortchanging accident victims with reduced payouts in order to maintain their profitability.?

Lastly, the personal injury attorney emphasizes the importance of having a skilled lawyer when it comes to matters such as filing an injury claim. An experienced personal injury lawyer may be able to help the victim receive the compensation they deserve.
