Acupuncture is one of the holistic healing methods used at Jochen Chiropractic & Wellness Center. This is a healing technique that realigns the energy in the body based on the concepts of traditional Chinese medicine (TCM). At the clinic, licensed acupuncturist Jainen Shin will insert sterilized needles into the skin of the patient at the appropriate depth to realign the energy of the body. Each needle is inserted into a particular meridian point, which is a point on the body where energy collects and disperses, to ensure the energy flow in the body is correctly placed in balance. Various issues may be resolved with acupuncture, such as headaches, allergies, joint and lower back pain, depression, sciatica, and other conditions.

Jochen Chiropractic & Wellness Center is also well-known for providing help to athletes. Thus, when in need of a sports chiropractor Beverly Hills residents tend to go to this chiropractic and wellness center.
