January 20, 2023

January 20, 2023 -
Burbank, California ? Burbank Tree Professionals, a company operating in Burbank, California, earlier today announced it had expanded its tree services to the entire neighborhood following the increased cases of tree infections and pests in the United States.

"A recent study by the Burbank Tree Professionals research team revealed that pests and tree infections in California are rising rapidly," said Adem Yasa, the company's CEO. "In response to that, Burbank Tree Professionals found it wise to expand its services to the furthest city suburbs."

Adem Yasa confirmed that the research team had found a cure for all the present tree infections and control measures for the pests. She also confirmed that the team will continue their research to secure the trees' future health.

"As I make this announcement," said Adem Yasa, "the Burbank Tree Professionals research team has already devised a solution to each pest and infection discovered during our recent study. The company has tried the treatments and control measures in different yards?these control measures have proven very effective. So the only remaining thing is introducing the new magic to homeowners."

"Also," added Adem Yasa, "the Burbank Tree Professionals research team will continue doing what it does best to ensure that even the infections that might emerge in the future will not be a threat to trees' life."

Adem Yasa also noted that Burbank Tree Professionals had employed more tree service specialists to make it easier to handle a larger region.

"We have added more tree service experts to our team to handle a bigger region comfortably," said Adem Yasa. "We have distributed the employees to the suburbs we will serve. The distribution will help to ensure that homeowners receive the services as soon as they make their orders."

Adem Yasa also noted that the company had acquired advanced equipment to make pest and infection control more effective.

"If a wrong tool is used when controlling the pests and diseases," said Adem Yasa, "the situation worsens. For this reason, to make the goal of reducing pests and infections a success, the company purchased different types of advanced tools and equipment."

Adem Yasa then advised homeowners in the furthest Burbank suburbs' to directly call the company or visit the company's website to make their tree service requests instead of visiting the company offices.

"There are numerous tree owners very far from Burbank," said Adem Yasa. "Visiting the company's office to make their tree care bookings would be very exhausting to them. The visit would also waste much of their time. Instead, they can use the website or call Burbank Tree Professionals to save time when making their bookings."

Adem Yasa lastly hinted at the company introducing its services to other cities in California in the future.

"Like said earlier," said Adem Yasa, "the high cases of pests and tree infections are in the whole country, so it would be better if the company managed to reach every city in California."

"If we extend our services further," continued Adem Yasa, "the homeowners will know via our tree care services media room. But, for now, I would urge the other tree care professionals in the other cities to take on the task of reducing the level of tree infections and pests. That way, we will have a better California with an environment that serves us and provides maximum benefits."
