January 26, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Ridgefield, NJ based PTI Office Furniture is offering local business access to an expansive catalog of new, used and refurbished office furniture. The store seeks to make it easier for customers to find affordable furniture without compromising on quality. They invite all interested parties to get in touch today for more information, especially concerning large orders.

Those who visit the store's showroom will quickly find it offers an incredible selection to choose from. Boasting over 25,000 square feet of space, chock-full of options, the showroom gives customers the ability to quickly survey what is available without having to participate in any guesswork. Size, quality, condition and more are immediately evident when examining furniture in person, which is one reason the store does not dedicate much space to individual items on its website. However, should customers wish, they are welcome to take a look at the comprehensive Buyers Guide, which can be downloaded for free from the store's website. A price guide can be found here as well.

As many online shoppers will be aware, it can be difficult to ascertain whether a piece of furniture is worth it from pictures posted online. No matter how many angles and shots are provided, most of the information they need to make an educated purchase will be missing, and they are often forced to hope for the best. With PTI Office Furniture, however, the opposite is true. In person, shoppers have an opportunity to interact with and even test out any furniture they are interested in. Further, they will also have an experienced member of the store's sales staff on hand to provide all the assistance they may need.

One customer says, "I received a wonderful deal on a Herman Miller chair, top of the line. Carlos was very professional and gave us the time and patience to find the perfect seat for my desk. I highly recommend PTI."

Other reviews have similarly positive comments to share about the store, and some customers report that it was easy for them to start their shopping experience on the official PTI Office Furniture website. Virtually every fact about the store can be found here, from examples of its products and services to a breakdown of its locations, availability, promotions and more. The store also recommends that customers use the website's financing calculator to estimate their payments or request a quote.

Once these initial steps are complete, they can visit the showroom for a closer look. In fact, PTI Office Furniture recommends this since their team will also be able to discuss every customer's needs at length in this manner. Further, PTI Office Furniture enjoys a glowing reputation among customers, due in part to its customer service as well as its excellent offerings. The store says their team makes it a point to source only the best options, and items which have suffered too much damage or are otherwise unfit for refurbishment will never be allowed onto the showroom floor. Every item must pass a stringent series of inspections to be considered fit for sale.

The store says this inspection typically considers whether the item in question is both sound and intact. Since office furniture has to withstand years of use in most cases, small imperfections are more likely to become distinct issues over time, reducing the expected lifespan of the product. Since this would inconvenience customers (and defeat the purpose of making items more affordable), the company maintains a strict line for quality assurance.

Another review explains why the company's high standard of customer service, especially post-purchase, makes them more convenient to work with as well. In the review, the customer says, "I ordered used cubicles partitions from PTI. Worked with Carlos who helped me with my design. Carlos gave me excellent customer service. The delivery and installation was done very professionally. [Although they are] used partitions, they look great. Thanks again, Carlos and his team. By the way, I recommend PTI to everyone!"

PTI Office Furniture can be reached via phone or email. Customers are invited to visit the showroom as well to speak with one of PTI's knowledgeable representatives.
