Atlanta Institute of Music and Media Is Hosting an Open House for Interested Musicians In February

February 07, 2023

Duluth, Georgia - February 07, 2023 -
The Atlanta Institute of Music and Media has announced its next open house will be held on campus at noon on February 18th, 2023. The Atlanta music school is urging readers to RSVP for the event by heading over to their website.

AIMM President, Nite Driscoll, talks about what attendees can expect from the upcoming open house by saying, "We have a free event coming up for prospective students. This open house will give people a chance to see the school, meet other students, talk to faculty, and learn how to start an exciting career in the music industry."

AIMM's open house will begin with a live performance and then transition into sample classes, including audio production, surround mixing, studio performance, and instrument-based courses in guitar, bass, keyboard, drums, and vocals.

The Atlanta Institute of Music and Media employs a unique approach to offer vocational training for aspiring musicians and music producers that other accredited music colleges just can't match. Incoming students can look forward to hands-on learning in studio recording sessions, classroom instruction, and live clinics featuring well-known and innovative music industry artists and experts.

AIMM offers several certificate programs for students who want to develop their budding talent and acquire the knowledge necessary to make headway in their musical journey. Currently, the school offers certificates in Music Production and Music Technology, as well as Performance Certificates in Guitar, Bass, Drums, Keyboard, and Voice. The certificate programs can be completed in 12 months (4 quarters) or 18 months (6 quarters) of part-time enrollment.

AIMM also offers degrees in Associate of Applied Science in Music Production and Audio for Media, which focuses on the technical application of music, sound design, and location audio for film, television, and gaming. Students will gain an in-depth understanding of mixing, mastering, and recording.

AIMM's Associate of Applied Science in Music and Technology Degree is offered in five concentrations - Guitar, Drums, Bass, Keyboard, or Voice, with courses specific to each instrument, recording, and engineering.

Both degree programs can be completed in 18-36 months of part-time to full-time enrollment. More information is available on their website, or you can reach out to their admissions team to get all of your questions answered.

Nite Driscoll talks about what makes AIMM and its various educational offerings unique by saying, "Our school is like no other. We are based in Atlanta, which has an amazing music scene where students can make industry connections. Our school is also different because, at other music production schools, students must hire vocalists and musicians or use karaoke tracks. At AIMM, we have music performance programs for voice, guitar, bass, keyboards, and drums, so the talent is all right there for music production students to work with. For music performance majors, we have music production courses that you won't find at other performance-based schools."

AIMM has also nurtured the talent of several musicians who successfully chased their passions and are now well respected in the music industry. Several alumni have gone on to make a name for themselves and found steady employment in the industry as sound engineers and audio producers.

Some of the school's most notable alumni include Tosin Abasi (Animals as Leaders), Kesha Lee (Childish Gambino, Gucci Mane), KEYZBABY (Beyonce, Cardi B, Wiz Khalifa), Turbo the Great (Young Thug, Lil Uzi Vert), Stephen Freeman (Tyrese, Method Man, Mary J. Blige), and many more.

Readers can visit the AIMM campus and attend their February 18th Open House at 2875 Breckinridge Blvd #700, Duluth, GA 30096, or get in touch with the admissions team at (770) 242-7717 or admissions@aimm.edu.

The program consist of courses designed to provide students with the necessary education to further his or her recording and engineering abilities. Atlanta Institute of Music and Media provides Audio Post Production program students with the instructional environment necessary to develop both their technical and practical talents. Students will acquire the skills to advance their musical aptidude and gain knowledge in the field of audio post production. The program also includes applied general education courses and gives the students the ability to obtain Pro Tools Certifications in music production and audio for film post production. Students in the Audio Post Production Associate of Applied Science program are required to complete the requisite number of General Education credits. Students wishing to attempt to transfer general education credits completed at other institutions must demonstrate appropriate comparability to the applied nature of the general education courses available at AIMM. Students must show proficiency on the instrument of their focus as described in Admissions procedures. Best Music School in GeorgiaMusic and Technology Associate Degree Atlanta Institute of Music and Media provides Music and Technology program students with the instructional environment necessary to develop both their technical and musical talents. Students acquire the skills to advance their musical aptitude and gain knowledge in the field of recording and engineering. Our M&T AAS degree has an instrument of focus (Guitar, Drums, Bass, Keyboard, or Voice), with courses specific to that instrument, as well as recording and engineering courses. The program is designed for the musician who also wishes to gain knowledge in the field of recording and engineering, in order to open opportunities in today's ever-changing music industry. By combining music and media, we help our students expand their income opportunities because AIMM graduates are prepared to step into to most in-demand positions today, including live event and studio recording, music composition and performance, audio engineering for music, gaming, film, television and more. Atlanta Music School Certification Program Atlanta Institute of Music and Media provides the non-beginning student with the instructional environment necessary to develop his/her talents and acquire the skills to become one of today's professional musicians or engineers. AIMM's Instrument curriculum accomplishes this through live performances, class and private instruction, audio and video computer lab instruction, and live clinics featuring today's most well-known and innovative artists and music industry experts. The Atlanta Institute of Music and Media's programs are taught by professionals whose work experience, certification and/or music degrees give each instructor the necessary background to teach the demanding curriculum. As a close-knit community, our students are exposed to a diverse range of musical styles, experiences and backgrounds. Atlanta Institute of Music and Media is state-certified by The Georgia Nonpublic Postsecondary Education Commission, and nationally accredited by The Council on Occupational Education. AIMM is an approved Veteran training facility, and financial aid is available for those who qualify.",

"articleBody": "Best Singing Lessons Top Singing Lessons near Atlanta, GA Are you looking for the best singing lessons? Tired of YouTube videos that give you half of the tips and hide the rest behind a paywall? Do you want to finally put yourself in a position where you can grow as a singer (and even land a successful career as a vocalist? - Keep reading to discover how this is possible). When it comes to maximizing your vocal talent, you need to consider quite a few things. That includes: Pitch Tone Range Breathing Techniques Projection and more However, that is just the beginning. Lessons can teach you techniques, but that only gets you so far. Imagine if your vocal lessons were COMBINED with the following: Growth opportunities Connections and networking Like-minded peers set for collaborations Career opportunities The best microphones, gear, and equipment If you just want to be a better singer for fun, then basic level online music lessons are not a bad option... However, if deep down you want to be a full-time, professional singer where your career satisfaction and income are at an all-time high, you need more. When you are passionate about something - such as singing - don't put yourself in a position where your growth, skills, and opportunities are limited. With basic vocal lessons, that is exactly what you are setting yourself up for, just like free YouTube videos. Instead, immerse yourself in a non-stop music atmosphere where each and every day is dedicated to singing and helping you grow as a vocalist. The Atlanta Institute of Music and Media is an accredited singing school that not only will help you leverage your singing talents but will ensure you're set up for lifetime career success. At AIMM, you can expect: Lessons on perfecting your pitch and tone The best breathing techniques Performance opportunities Stage and performance techniques How to properly care for your voice How to expand your vocal range Music theory education How to record, mix, and master your own original music All of this is taught by industry-leading instructors that have succeeded in the business and are fully invested in your personal and professional growth. If this sounds beneficial to your aspirations as a singer and you want to become more talented at singing than you imagined possible, click below to learn more about AIMM. Don't settle for less. Don't just search for singing lessons near me. Don't settle for a 9-5 job. Pursue your passion and turn your dream of a professional vocal career into a reality. Singing Programs at AIMM Atlanta Institute of Music and Media offers two programs to vocalists looking for in-depth and intricate singing lessons. It can be narrowed down into two categories: Singers that want to learn music production (tracking, mixing, and mastering) Singers that want to focus solely on their performance skills Let's break them down a little further. Music and Technology Associate Degree: Vocal Concentration Do you have aspirations of recording your own music? Want to know the ins and outs of music production? If you want to learn your favorite DAW like the back of your hand while also elevating your singing skill level, you need to check out the Music and Technology Associate Degree: Vocal Concentration. In addition to getting a complete vocal education, you'll also learn how to track, mix, and master like your favorite professionals. In fact, an AIMM alumnus co-produced 2020's #1 hit song, WAP. In this current music industry climate, learning how to produce music is never a bad idea. It can even be a great side hustle if your main focus is on singing. Did You Know: This particular program is one major separation between AIMM and other music schools. No other accredited music college combines singing lessons and courses with an advanced music production curriculum. Everyone is looking for a slight edge. Earning this singing degree will help you stand out from the crowd in a very saturated vocal market. Performance Certificate in Vocals Not interested in the production side of music? If you are all about singing, hitting every note, and putting on a great show, you will thrive in our Performance Certificate. The Performance Certificate's objective is to provide the knowledge and assistance in producing a recorded portfolio needed to obtain employment or self-employment in music performance used in the world wide web, movies, television, radio, record labels, video film multimedia production studios, and live recording for bands and churches. Get Professional Vocal Development AIMM develops our vocal performance students into successful singers and teachers. Many vocal artists and singers face the insecurities of producing riveting material, standing out to and attracting an audience, building a unique musical style, working the stage, and effectively communicating with a live audience. At AIMM, we address all industry challenges both with hands-on instruction and performance workshops. Plus, what are the credentials of your current vocal coach? AIMM only employs instructors with significant music industry experience and success. They provide students with the instructional environment necessary to achieve their individualized musical goals. Now, let's take a look at some of the benefits of attending AIMM. What are the Benefits of Attending AIMM to Elevate Your Singing Career? 1.
