New Braunfels, TX - January 31, 2023 -
Dr. Mark Hickman, MD, FACS, a vasectomy reversal surgeron in New Braunfels, TX, expects to encourage more men who had vasectomy to want to recover their ability to become a dad once more by offering affordable all-inclusive options for the vasectomy reversal procedure. The more affordable choice is priced at $3,300 and this includes local anesthesia and an oral sedative. The other alternative is priced at $4,200 and is for those who prefer IV sedation that is administered by a board certified anesthesiologist. These prices are all-inclusive, which means that there will no surprise additional fees or charges.

The vasectomy reversal requires the microsurgical repair of the vas deferens, which is a long, muscular tube used for transporting mature sperm to the urethra is preparation for ejaculation.
Since this is a reversal of the vasectomy procedure, which was accomplished by cutting the vas deferens and sealing it by tying, cauterizing, or using surgical clips, it makes sense that its reversal involves reconnecting the two ends after finding them and freeing them from the surrounding scar tissue. Using a powerful microscope to provide 10 to 15 stitches using fine nylon suture, Dr. Hickman will aim for a watertight closure to have a higher success rate.

To increase the chances of success, Dr. Hickman will take a sample of fluid from the testicular end of the vas deferens before reconnecting the two ends. He will examine the fluid under laboratory microscope to check if it contains sperm. If the fluid doesn?t contain sperm at all, whether whole sperm of sperm parts, this indicates an obstruction usually due to an epididymal blowout. This is caused by rupture of a tube in the epididymis. Thus, for this particular situation, in addition to the vasovasostomy, Dr. Hickman will need to do a vasoepididymostomy. But the patient need not worry because there will be no additional cost even if both repairs have to be performed for the vasectomy reversal.

Meanwhile, aside from the affordable vasectomy reversal, Dr. Hickman wants to emphasize that they have also crafted exclusive travel deals with the local hotels, which means that out of town patients will be able to save as much as 50 percent of the price for their hotel accommodation. He also wants to emphasize that New Braunfels is a tourist town and those who travel from other places to go to the vasectomy reversal center, can hit two birds with one stone by taking a look at the various attractions available, such as Schlitterbahn, which is the country?s biggest water park that offers whole day fun for kids of all ages.
