

Work Injury Lawyer Alexander Napolin Is Offering Legal Advice to Ontario Residents

February 09, 2023

Ontario, California - February 09, 2023 -
Alexander Napolin, considered by his clients to be the best personal injury lawyer Ontario has to offer, is offering legal advice to Californians who have suffered injuries due to unsafe working conditions at their place of employment.

In the state of California, employers are required to pay workers? compensation benefits to their injured employees under Labor Code Section 3700. In 2020, across California, 645,409 FROIs (First Report of Injury) were filed, a rate of injury equating to 3.7 per 100 employees. Providing workers? comp insurance benefits indemnifies employers against personal injury lawsuits in most situations. Once the claim is filed, employees then face the lawyers working for the employer?s insurance company to get compensated. While claimants can choose to go at it alone, since insurance providers try their best to deny even the most legitimate claims, around three-quarters of all workers who file a claim with the Workers? Compensation Appeals Board seek legal representation from attorneys while doing so.

Alexander Napolin talks about the need for having a lawyer by one?s side when seeking workers? compensation by saying, ?Even if you have a strong case against your employer, it is not easy to get successfully compensated. Insurance companies use every trick in the book that their experienced lawyers can throw at you to deny your claim. They spend a lot on highly paid and experienced lawyers under the guise of preventing fraud. However, contrary to popular belief, only 1 to 2% of claims are proven to be fraudulent. Insurance companies are just trying to make more money for themselves. Don?t let them disregard your rights and take away what you are rightfully owed. With an experienced attorney such as myself on your side, you can take the fight to the very end and come out at the other end of an accident financially stable and healthy to live your best life. Alexander Napolin is a 100% plaintiff-side lawyer. This means that he never represents insurance companies and only provides his legal services to regular everyday people who are fighting for justice. For workers? compensation cases, he works on a contingency fee basis which means that his clients don?t have to put up any money upfront. If the client?s case succeeds, Alexander Napolin?s fee will be a percentage of the received benefits. If he is not successful, the client does not owe anything. This arrangement gives Alexander Napolin?s clients peace of mind because it ensures that he works hard on every case he takes on.
