Heber-Overgaard, Arizona - Mountain Dream Builders, a custom home builder in the White Mountains of Arizona, is proud to announce the start of 2023 with a bang. The company has broken ground on several new custom homes, including a first-of-its-kind modern A-frame home design in the area.

Founded by Jed Reidhead, Mountain Dream Builders has a rich history of building homes in the White Mountains for five generations. With a passion for the craft and a commitment to quality, the team at Mountain Dream Builders is excited to bring their expertise and personalized touch to these new projects.

"We are thrilled to be starting the new year strong and continuing our legacy of building homes in the White Mountains," said Jed Reidhead. "Our team is dedicated to delivering high-quality, functional, and beautiful homes that embody the essence of mountain living."

The new custom homes in the White Mountains of Arizona, including the modern A-frame design, are built to meet the unique needs and preferences of each individual client. With a focus on quality, Mountain Dream Builders is committed to building homes that are not only beautiful but also energy-efficient and environmentally responsible.

"We believe that everyone deserves a beautiful home that is tailored to their needs and preferences," added Reidhead. "Our goal is to make the home building process a seamless and enjoyable experience for our clients."
