

New Website Featuring Permanent Magnet & Variable Speed Motor Products Launched

December 03, 2015

December 03, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Hampton Controls, Inc., a business in Wendel, PA, has announced the launch of the company's brand new website for their Motor Drives and Motors Division. The website highlights their electric motors and control products, including the variable speed motor. The store is incredibly happy with the new site.

"Our new website looks amazing," says the marketing team from Hampton Controls, Inc. "We really can't thank the design team enough for what they have achieved. People can really see what we're about now - fractional up to 5HP DC motor drive controls and DC motors - and they can find all of our products and lots of information as well."

The new and improved website also includes an eCommerce store now. This makes it easier for their customers to review the information and specifications for all of the DC motor control and DC motors they need 24/7. In addition, all of the current manuals, along with the discontinued and obsolete product manuals are available for download in PDF format to help support the continued use of their various products. Motor drive control part numbers can be configured online along with the available DC motors. Of course, standard customer service and technical help are also available during normal business hours via a toll free phone

"It is so easy now to look up a specific part number or configure it," says one happy customer. "Then, I just order it online, receive confirmation of my order and, once shipped, receive my order at home. In the meantime, I can download the appropriate manuals and documentation to address all my DC motor control and DC motor requirements. The new site really is fantastic."

Hampton Products Company motor drives and motors have been used in many industrial applications, large screen presses, and other equipment requiring DC motor control and DC motors, including the high quality permanent magnet motor. Their products have been sold worldwide to both end users and OEM's for years.

Hampton Products Company a division of Hampton Controls, Inc. provides quality DC motor controls such as the well known Cycletrol 150 series and Varispeed series, along with Motor Drives & Motors, and assemblies such as the Magnapak Motor series that incorporate both the DC motor control and DC motor.
