Lehi, Utah - February 21, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Lehi, Utah based Waite Vision is pleased to share that Ashley Rose Reeves considers Waite Vision to be Best LASIK in Utah. Using state-of-the-art technology, Waite Vision provides its patients with a range of high quality vision correction services, such as LASIK, EVO ICL, SMILE, Refractive Lens Exchange, and more.

Ashley Rose Reeves, a body positive influencer, recently underwent LASIK surgery at Waite Vision's Lehi office. Waite Vision shared her blog post about the process, in which she described her experience, shared video of the process, and praised Waite Vision as the best LASIK center in Utah.

As Waite Vision explains, LASIK ? short for laser-assisted in situ keratomileusis ? is one of the most popular and well-known vision correction surgeries. In human eyes, the cornea usually refracts light precisely onto the back of the eye. However, there can be cases where the cornea is altered, which can cause issues such as nearsightedness (myopia), farsightedness (hyperopia) or astigmatism, because the light is not redirected properly. While glasses or contact lenses can correct this problem, reshaping the cornea itself using LASIK is a more permanent solution. When someone undergoes LASIK surgery, a special type of laser is used to precisely change the shape of the dome-shaped clear tissue at the front of their eye (cornea) to improve vision.

Ashley Rose Reeves writes in her blog post, "As a person with severe health anxiety, the thought of getting vision correction was not even on my radar. I'd lived 20 years wearing glasses and contacts, and I had no idea what I was missing out on! I kept hearing from my friends that they got Lasik done at Waite Vision, located in Lehi, and how incredibly easy it was for them. They couldn't praise their experiences enough. I finally bit the bullet and booked a consultation."

She then goes on to share her experience after the initial consultation where a team of techs ran a series of tests on her eyes. This was done to check corneal shape/thickness, prescription, and pressure. Following this procedure, she had a personal consultation with Dr. Waite to determine the best course of action. While Waite Vision offers a range of vision-correction procedures, Ashley's eyes were best suited for LASIK, and she scheduled her surgery. The full post can be found on Ashley Rose Reeves' blog where there is also a link to Ashley's Instagram, in which she shared the full video of the procedure.

Ashley writes, "To sum up my Lasik experience at Waite Vision, I will say this: It was a hundred times easier than I ever expected. It was quick, painless, and my vision was nearly perfect just minutes after. Dr. Waite and his team treat you like family and go above and beyond in making you feel comfortable (unlike being part of an assembly line that you may experience at other offices). Just because it's a quick, routine procedure, doesn't mean it can't be personable! Even if you have been told that you aren't a candidate for vision-correction in the past, get a second opinion! At Waite Vision, they use top-of-the-line equipment and technology that has helped several individuals who said they didn't qualify."

Waite Vision states modern vision correction technology has come a long way since its early days. State-of-the-art laser technology provides LASIK surgeons more options for treating patients with vision issues, but there are also brand-new procedures like SMILE, implantable contact lenses (EVO ICL), refractive lens exchange (RLE), and advanced surface ablation (ASA/advanced PRK) that have been developed to treat more specific cases. While Ashley Reeves was able to undergo LASIK, anyone who may not be an ideal candidate for that procedure will find there are many more modern solutions, all of which are offered by the team at Waite Vision.
