February 15, 2023 -
Bluffton, SC - Travel publication 101 Things To Do magazine is highly encouraging visitors of Hilton Head Island to visit the award-winning regional Arts Center of Coastal Carolina.

Located in the heart of Hilton Head Island, the Arts Center of Coastal Carolina is an independent, non-profit theater that showcases professional performing and visual arts, as well as cultural festivals and educational outreach. It is a place with all things artistically inspiring and exceptional.

The 101 Things To Do publication has compiled a list of things anyone should experience when visiting the theater. According to the Hilton Head insider magazine, there are several opportunities to encounter the Arts Center's distinctive experience, given the diversity of performances, courses, and events.

One way is through the theater series. The Arts Center of Coastal Carolina offers five plays each theatrical season. In addition, guests can witness plays, musicals, and comedies on their 349-seat main stage at Elizabeth Wallace Theater. The audience is sure to be captivated by outstanding performances, including excellent directing, first-rate production design, and top-tier actors.

Visitors may also enjoy notable performances by jazz musicians, comedians, current music artists, illusionists, and foreign dance companies, among others. In addition, the 101 Things To Do Magazine says that the Art Center of Coastal Carolina is big on community outreach programs. There are free outdoor festivals and concerts to enjoy.

The Top Online Publication for Hilton Head says the Arts Center of Coastal Carolina also offers education programs. The center offers visual and performance workshops, lectures, field trips, special needs opportunities, and Artists-in-Education residencies. This is their way of making arts education accessible to the Hilton Head community.

Furthermore, the arts center hosts year-round exhibitions of artworks. The center collaborates with local artists and features their works through various exhibits.

Meanwhile, 101 Things To Do magazine is an informational, inspirational, and entertaining travel resource. The online publication is an excellent resource for tourists who want to know the popular spots and activities to enjoy with family.

On their website, visitors can check a long list of Hilton Head's activities. Additionally, the website includes a directory of service providers that visitors can contact.
