Lexington, KY ? Lexington Tree Experts, a prominent tree care company based in Kentucky, recently received the accreditation of the Tree Care Industry Association (TCIA). This marks a significant milestone for the company and its CEO, Emmy Jessica, who has been dedicated to providing quality services to the local community since founding the business in 2000.

Since their founding, Lexington Tree Experts has been dedicated to providing quality tree care services to the local community. This dedication to excellence has resulted in a wide range of services and offerings, from pruning and trimming to insect and disease management. In addition, they offer tree removal, stump grinding, planting, cabling, and bracing. They also specialize in aiding the development of urban forestry initiatives, conservation efforts, and storm damage cleanup.

Under the leadership of Emmy Jessica, the company has established itself as a leader in this field by staying up-to-date on the latest practices and techniques within the industry. The recent accreditation by TCIA signifies that Lexington Tree Experts meets all standards set by their organization for tree care businesses. This includes adhering to best management practices for arboriculture and maintaining full insurance coverage and employee training programs.

As a result of their accreditation, customers can trust that any services provided by Lexington Tree Experts are always conducted safely and professionally. This milestone is just one of many accomplishments for the small business, which began operations nearly 20 years ago. Emmy Jessica's leadership has propelled Lexington Tree Experts into becoming one of Kentucky's most sought-after tree care companies. Information on all the services offered by Lexington Tree Experts can be accessed here: <https://www.treeservicelexington.net/>.

The TCIA is a national trade association representing more than 2,600 tree care companies across the United States. The organization provides tree care businesses with education, resources, and professional certification. Receiving accreditation from TCIA acknowledges the high standards of competence that Lexington Tree Experts has achieved.

"We are extremely honored to receive recognition from the Tree Care Industry Association," said Emmy Jessica, CEO of Lexington Tree Experts. "At Lexington Tree Experts, we strive to provide our customers with the highest level of service and safety possible. This accreditation is a testament to our commitment to excellence in what we do."

Lexington Tree Experts offer comprehensive tree care services, handling everything from the smallest sapling to the tallest oak. They are experts in pruning and trimming trees safely and efficiently using only the best tools available on the market. In addition, they have the experience and skills necessary to provide exceptional tree removal services, including felling large trees without damaging nearby property or injuring people.

Their stump grinding service is comprehensive, ensuring all stumps are completely removed down to ground level. In addition, they provide insect control treatments to protect trees from infestations of harmful pests such as carpenter ants and borers. They offer services related to tree planting and safeguarding new growth with fertilizing and careful monitoring. If a storm has damaged trees, they provide emergency services, including debris removal and handling fallen trees quickly and safely.

Furthermore, they can help homeowners create more usable space with their firewood cutting service or land clearing when looking for a fresh start in their backyard. They strive for excellence in all entrusted projects, ensuring satisfaction every step of the way. Now with their TCIA accreditation under their belt, Lexington Tree Experts will be able to broaden their reach further and continue providing top-notch services to their clients.
