This recognition has resulted in glowing reviews continuing to be the norm for the services backyard bug patrol offers.

John Mitchell, the company owner, says, ?We love it when a customer takes the time to leave a review that speaks highly of the pest control services that we offer. Not only because it creates highly positive word of mouth for our company, but also because it shows that the great efforts that we go to in order to offer the absolute best pest control services are being appreciated by our customers.?

Rodman's review can be seen on the company?s Google Business Profile. Or they can be lengthier 5-star reviews such as this one by Jessica Bernstein which states, ?I?ve been using Backyard Bug Patrol for more than 5 years now. Their treatments are quite effective at reducing the number of mosquitoes in the yard. Used to be I couldn?t even step outside without getting bitten up. Now I can comfortably enjoy being outside. Their treatments also help eliminate fleas and ticks which makes me feel better when my dog is in the yard. They are reliable and the technicians are courteous.?

The company owner went on to say tick and mosquito control solutions are definitely among the company?s most popular services. They use treatments that are not only impactful but also fully guaranteed. He says that one of the best ways for their customers to protect themselves against tick and mosquito infestations is to take advantage of the barrier spray programs that they offer, which includes monthly applications of a non-toxic and all-organic solution that is pet and people friendly. He added that it has quite the opposite effect on yard pests such as ticks and mosquitoes.

The barrier spray programs have also generated many 5-star reviews for Backyard bug patrol. Rebecca Keiser proclaimed, ?We purchased the Flower Power program to control mosquitos in our yard. We definitely saw a decrease in mosquitos and could enjoy being outside in our yard much more this past summer. We've purchased the same program again for this coming summer. Backyard Bug Patrol was easy to communicate with, responsive, and on time. They even came out after a big rain to spray again for ?added protection?. I highly recommend them.? Jeff Sexton stated in a recent 5-star review, ?Returning customer, have used them for multiple years to spray and eliminate mosquitoes from the yard. On time, consistent, quick, a great experience.?

The company owner pointed out that those who are interested in making their yards more people-friendly this summer can call and ask them about their ?flower power? tick and mosquito repelling spray applications.

In addition to offering reputable mosquito and tick control services, the company also has ways to rid customers of other common indoor and outdoor pests, including those that may have had rodents take up residence in their homes over the winter. A recent blog article the company posted on its website is titled ?Beware of Rats? Sneaky Behavior in The Colder Months? and talked about the vast amount of unseen damage these critters can cause.

Backyard Bug Patrol also uses proven termite, ant, snake, and stink bug control methods and they also are happy to provide all their services to commercial customers too.
