Seniors Hiring Interior Designer for Their Second Homes in Boca Raton FL

February 24, 2023 -
Mosaic Luxe Interior Design founder and owner Stacey Cohen is proud to announce that seniors have been hiring the interior designer for their second homes in Boca Raton, FL and surrounding areas. Many of them are ?snowbirds? who are people who want to escape the harsh and cold temperatures during winter so they have a second home in a place with a warmer climate, such as in Boca Raton, Florida. Typically, they move south between November and March, which are the winter months.

Although there are some cons to buying a second home, there are a lot of advantages. These include: being able to choose one?s decor and furniture; ease of travel to the second home because there?s no need to bring clothing and personal items; possibility of inviting guests, including friends and family; possibility of offsetting expenses for the second home by renting it out during the non-winter months; possibility of retiring in the second home; possibility of tax benefits; possible good investment; and more.

Designing and building a second home is quite different from that of a primary home. Homeowners often feel more creative and want to truly express themselves more with their second home. And second homes are usually more open and informal since they are frequently places for rejuvenation. And the open plan means the home is more flexible. For instance, with an open plan, a wide foyer can be easily converted into a dining room, which is convenient of people who like to hold parties and family gatherings. Open floor plans are becoming more and more popular. For instance, the kitchen can be seamlessly integrated with the living room, offering wider space where the entire family can gather together. Big sliding doors and window walls have also been gaining in popularity as these tend to make the interior space appear to be more spacious. This also allows the interior and exterior parts of the home to blend together, which is popular in places with warmer climates like Boca Raton.

Another common home design in Boca Raton is the coastal design style, which happens to be the signature aesthetic of Boca Raton that includes light colors and the natural materials like stone, wood, and linen to represent the tranquil ambiance of sea air. These homes have big windows that open up to the exterior spaces that provide scenic nature views.

At Mosaic Luxe, their main focus is getting the work done right for homeowners the first time. They work with trusted and vetted contractors and manage Interior design projects from start to finish making sure every deadline is met.

Stacey Cohen, the founder of Mosaic Luxe Interior Design, has more than 20 years of experience in interior design and project management. She has a degree in interior architecture and is LEED-AP certified and she designs for intelligent and successful people who have worked hard their whole life and now simply want to enjoy the warm climate of Florida.

Stacey Cohen says, ?When people learn more about me, they sometimes assume what I?m most proud of is being a finalist in a televised, interior design competition. However, over my 20+ year career in design, what I?m most proud of is the work I do for people who own homes in Boca Raton.?
