On the other hand, Carlsen says, SEO is also an on-going process which is constantly changing and thus, needs regular monitoring. Each search engine has its own set of rules and algorithms when ranking websites, and these rules and algorithms also evolve. He says that good SEO consultants are aware of this process,, should employ the latest SEO trends and techniques in order to ensure that the client maintains the top position. For the continuous growth of a company and its website, Carlsen says, it is a must to establish a strong search engine position.
