York, Pennsylvania - March 07, 2023 -
York PA movers, Kinetic Movers are highlighting the exciting sights and sounds that await those planning to move to the York-Hanover metropolitan area.

Founded in 1749, York is the county seat of York County and also the tenth largest city in Pennsylvania with an urban population of just under a quarter of a million people. The city has a rich history which includes the drafting of the Articles of Confederation, considered to be the nation?s first framework of government. Today, the city has managed to strike a balance between preserving its historic heritage and modernizing it to appeal to incoming residents. As a result, the city?s population grew by nearly 10% between 2010 and 2016, a rate that is double the national average for cities of its size.

For those who love to stretch and relax outdoors without venturing far outside city limits, Baker Park offers plenty of activities such as biking paths, fishing, hiking, and more. At 900 acres, it is one of the largest municipal parks in the United States. Residents intent on soaking up the town?s history can visit any of its 20 museums including The York Little Theatre, the York County Heritage Trust, and the Pennsylvania Military Museum. Other attractions in York include the Historic District located on George Street which has a quintessential old-world charm, the River Life Museum which is an ode to the history of the York River, and the York Expo Center.

The spokesperson for Kinetic Movers talks about more things to do in York, PA, by saying, ?When you are done touring the museums and enjoying the historic architecture, you can make your way to any of the hundreds of restaurants serving mouth-watering cuisines. At one time, the city was also called the Nation?s Kitchen as settlers from all over the world brought the best they had to offer and gave York a tradition of great food. You?ll never run out of places to explore. You can always plan a trip to get a feel for the city before moving in. When you are ready to pack up and settle here, give us a call to make the transition as smooth and hassle-free as possible.?
