March 01, 2023 -
Davis, CA ? Davis Tree Service Experts, a prominent tree care and landscaping company, is proud to partner with local businesses to launch a townwide initiative to plant trees in urban areas with low tree canopy coverage. This project aims to help transform the city of Davis into an even more beautiful and sustainable environment.

Davis Tree Service Experts and these businesses have come together to provide resources, expertise, and manpower to help bring the initiative to fruition. The project is expected to span several neighborhoods in the city of Davis, with tree planting sites already being identified and mapped out according to areas needing additional tree coverage.

The initiative will also be supported by donations from community members passionate about helping create a greener environment for future generations. These donations will help cover costs associated with maintaining and supporting the trees as they mature.

Furthermore, volunteers from various local organizations will lend their time and energy to assist with planting and watering the newly planted trees to ensure their success. This ambitious project is a unique opportunity for Davis Tree Service Experts, local businesses, organizations, and community members to work together to achieve a common goal: strengthening Davis' urban forests for current and future generations.

As part of this endeavor, workshops will be offered throughout the year, focusing on how individuals can contribute by planting trees on their properties or joining volunteer events to help maintain existing trees.

Leslie Behan, CEO of Davis Tree Service Experts, announced the initiative. "We are excited to be partnering with local businesses to bring this important initiative to fruition," said Behan. "Trees provide numerous environmental benefits and create a healthier, more vibrant community. We believe that this project will not only improve the aesthetics of our city but also help reduce air pollution, decrease energy consumption, and mitigate the effects of climate change."

The trees selected for the project are native species well-suited for the area's climate and soil conditions. These trees include oaks, maple, cottonwoods, sycamore, ash, redbud, and California buckeye.

In addition to planting new trees, the project also involves ongoing maintenance and support for existing trees in the city. This includes pruning, fertilizing, and pest control services. The goal is to ensure the trees remain healthy and vibrant while providing long-term environmental benefits such as shade and clean air.

Local businesses have been eager to get involved with the initiative and provide additional resources to make it a success. "This project has been made possible thanks to the generous contributions from local businesses who share our commitment to creating a more sustainable environment for future generations," said Behan. "It's great seeing so many people unite for this important cause."

The citywide initiative is expected to begin in early July 2021 and will take several months. The public is encouraged to join in the effort and volunteer their time to help plant and maintain the trees.
