March 01, 2023 -
Wichita, KS ? Wichita Tree Service Pros is proud to announce the launch of their new service offering tree-based solutions for stormwater management and erosion control. The company provides a range of services designed to mitigate the impact of storms on properties and landscapes in the area while protecting against soil erosion.

Wichita Tree Service Pros uses various services to help manage stormwater and erosion, including installing rain gardens, tree plantings, soil enhancements, and other site-specific solutions.

Rain gardens are engineered depressions that capture, filter, and store runoff from storms while providing wildlife habitat. Trees planted on slopes slow runoff while their roots hold soil in place. Soil amendments help prevent erosion by improving drainage and introducing plant-available nutrients into the soil. Each method is designed to reduce the amount of water entering storm drains and help protect against property damage caused by flooding and erosion.

In addition to mitigating stormwater and erosion issues, Wichita Tree Service Pros are dedicated to preserving the local environment through their services. Natural solutions such as trees and soil enhancements effectively create green spaces that serve multiple purposes. Not only do these projects absorb moisture during storms for better control with less runoff, but they also provide additional benefits. For example, these benefits include improved air quality thanks to the carbon dioxide absorption by trees, increased biodiversity through the introduction of native plants for wildlife, and aesthetic improvements with greenery, among many other benefits.
