

New Toddler Snack Cup Released With Special Introductory Offer

December 03, 2015

December 03, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Littleware Containers, operating out of Eagle Mountain, Utah, has recently released a new toddler snack cup. To celebrate this launch, they are offering the product at a discounted price for a limited time only. The cup will be available through Amazon.com for just $12.86 while stocks last.

Littleware Containers' Erin Downs was quoted as saying: "We love our new toddler snack cup and we just know people are going to love it too. To make sure more people will get a chance to try them, we have released them on a special discounted price for a limited time only. They are flying off the shelves, so we really encourage people to get theirs now, while they still can."

Since its release, the product has indeed been selling out very quickly. While stocks are still available, they are dwindling rapidly. And it is essential to point out the fact that those who have purchased the snack cups have left overwhelmingly positive reviews. "These work great," says one customer who also called the cups 'amazing'. "They are great for traveling and taking the kids to the store."

The snack cups come in a set of four. They are fitted with a threaded top that prevents spills. These lids easily flip open, making them suitable for on the go snacks. They are particularly popular with young children, who also like the handle, enabling them to carry it with them wherever they go. The tops, meanwhile, come in a bright yellow and funky green, making them a lot of fun to look at as well.

Littleware Containers is also very proud of the fact that the product is 100% made in the USA. "We wanted to create something that helps people on an individual basis, but also communities as a whole," adds Erin Downs. "By ensuring the product is made in the USA, we support the local economy. And, because the cups are so fun and easy to use, they also encourage people to choose healthy snacks and meals."

People are encouraged to find Littleware Containers on Amazon as soon as possible if they want to take advantage of the current promotion.
