April 12, 2023

Orange, California - April 12, 2023 -
Alexander Napolin, regarded by his clients as the best workers compensation lawyer Orange has to offer, is helping personal injury victims get the proper legal advice for their circumstances.

Slip and fall accidents can cause serious injuries, the long-term physical effects of which reverberate in a person?s life for several years. Even a simple superficial bruise can hide an internal injury that requires constant medical attention and completely hampers the victim?s quality of life. So, regardless of whether the injury was on private or public property or in the workplace, it can be hard to come to terms with, especially if it was caused due to another party?s fault or negligence.

?In California personal injury law, strict liability protects victims in cases where the defendant is liable for their injuries regardless of negligence or intent,? Alexander Napolin says. ?It is used to hold accountable those who are tasked with creating a safe space for everyone working or visiting their premises. It can be hard to bring into play as the burden of proof falls on the victim to demonstrate that the defendant, according to all reasonable considerations, should have known or done better.?

While strict liability can be proven only in some cases, all personal injury lawsuits in California, including workers' compensation cases, require the victim to prove negligence on behalf of the party at fault. For example, in auto accidents, this can mean finding and bringing to light evidence that shows the driver responsible for the accident was reckless, inattentive, or under the influence. Depending on the circumstances of the case, victims can expect a settlement or may even have to fight the case in court.

?When you fight a personal injury lawsuit,? Alexander continues, ?you are likely going against highly trained and experienced lawyers from the insurance companies who engage in legal maneuvering on an almost daily basis. They only care about reducing the liability for their employer and will not hesitate to paint a false picture to get their clients off the hook. If you have been injured in California and are making Google searches similar to ?Motorcycle Accident Lawyer Near Me Orange?, we urge you to seek immediate representation from experienced attorneys such as me, Alexander Napolin, and my handpicked team of personal injury law experts.?
