Menifee, CA ? Menifee Tree Service Professionals, a premier tree care and maintenance service provider, has recently launched an innovative tree health monitoring program. The new program will help property owners detect problems with their trees earlier and take preventive measures to protect them from diseases and other damage.

This unique program is designed to help property owners identify potential issues with their trees before they become serious, saving them thousands of dollars in costly repairs and treatments that could have been avoided. The program involves monthly evaluations of all trees on the property by certified arborists trained to recognize signs of tree decline or disease.

?At Menifee Tree Service Professionals, we believe that early detection is key to preserving the health and lifespan of your trees,? said Manda Smith, Menifee Tree Service Professionals CEO. ?With this new program, we are allowing property owners to get proactive about protecting their trees and prevent costly damages in the future.?

The program, offered as part of Menifee Tree Service Professionals? comprehensive list of services, includes regular inspections of trees conducted by expert arborists who will look for signs of poor health. This includes checking for irregularities in the leaves and bark and signs of infestation or weakened limbs. Any issues found during these inspections can be addressed immediately with treatments and preventive measures.
