Los Angeles, California ? The detox process can be uncomfortable and even potentially dangerous for people trying to achieve recovery, and that?s why a drug and alcohol detox center is the safest option. In California, Novo Detox has once again earned a top review from one of its clients for the help she received at the facility.

?I was hesitant to enter a drug detox program, but Novo Detox made the process as comfortable as possible,? wrote Darlene, a former patient, in her 5-star Google review. ?The medical staff was professional and caring, and the mental health services provided were top-notch.?

Based in the heart of Los Angeles, Novo Detox operates as a top detox center and place for drug and alcohol addiction treatment. In addition to medically-supervised detox for alcohol, opioids, heroin, and other drugs, Novo also offers inpatient detox and rehab services for people who need additional support and a more controlled environment to recover from addiction.

As Darlene found when she enrolled in inpatient rehab, Novo Detox also offers mental health services for its clients.
