Seattle, WA: The chiropractic needs of Seattle are now fully covered thanks to Hanson Chiropractic & Massage clinic. Holistic and natural treatments are offered to patients suffering from neck and back pains, headaches, sciatica, and other painful conditions. The chiropractic care center is led by Dr. Michael E. Hanson, D.C., who has been helping people in and around Seattle manage their body pain and live active life for over 20 years.

Misaligned vertebrae, bulging discs, and spinal degeneration can all lead to discomfort in the neck and back area. This body pain can affect patients' balance, posture, and spinal health, affecting resistance to disease and the health of internal organs. Back and neck pain, in particular, prevents patients from living their lives to the fullest and makes them more prone to physical, emotional, and chemical stress. Spin misalignments can cause sickness, weakness, fatigue, and early aging.

To address these issues, the Hanson Chiropractic & Massage Clinic team carefully evaluates each patient's condition to determine the best course of action for their individual needs. With a thorough examination, the chiropractors identify the source of a patient's pain and develop a customized treatment plan. This may include chiropractic adjustments, massage therapy, and physical therapy exercises. From an expert's perspective, chiropractic techniques can relax tight structures to restore a normal range of motion and naturally reduce pain without drugs and surgical procedures.

At Hanson Chiropractic & Massage Clinic, patient safety is paramount. All of their treatments are carefully tailored to the patient's needs while complying with all state and federal laws. The clinic holds a Washington State Chiropractic License, which signifies that all treatments abide by the strictest standards to ensure safe and effective medicines.

Catering to the chiropractic needs of Seattle, Hanson Chiropractic & Massage clinic is the ideal place to find relief from neck and back pain. Additionally, the clinic offers nutritional advice and lifestyle counseling to help patients make healthier choices.
