March 31, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Illuminex Lighting, a company based in Denver, CO, has today announced a new range of products for commercial lighting Denver facilities can use. The focus of the company is in lighting retrofit, mainly for commercial applications. All of their products are made in this country, which is certainly a great selling point.

"We take great pride in all of our products," says Dennis Gronbeck from Illuminex Lighting. "We want to make sure that our lighting helps communities from start to finish. Not only do we make Denver a brighter place, we ensure the overall economy grow as well by using products made right here in the USA."

The range of products include LED light bulbs, corn bulbs, induction canopies, breather tubes, filament bulbs, flood lights, linear tubes, dimmable bulbs, tube lights with motion sensors, waterproof lights and more. But perhaps more impressive are the high standards that they have followed for all of their products.

After years of research, they have identified the best possible manufacturers for all their products. As such, they offer both private label products and OEM products and all of these meet the highest possible manufacturing and safety standards. Additionally, Illuminex has made sure that all their products are affordable. It is also for this reason that anybody can click here for a free quote, so that they can see for themselves just how good and affordable the products are.

The company is also known for its ethics. They understand that lighting not just has to be about economic efficiency, but also about environmental considerations. This means that they have also put the emphasis on sustainability.

"We believe that the world can only remain the bright and beautiful place that it is if lighting does not use up the remaining fossil fuels," added Dennis Gronbeck. "We embrace this path forward and look to the future with regard for where we have been, where we are going and how the choices we make will bring a positive future and change for us all."

Environmental considerations are hugely important for most commercial and governmental organizations. By choosing green solutions, they are not only lowering their carbon footprints, they are also reducing the amount of money that is being spent on power and electricity. Hence, the new range of products offered by Illuminex Lighting at <http://www.illuminexlighting.com/our-products-2/> are likely to encourage more people to learn more about these products.

Thanks to Illuminex Lighting and their work on commercial lighting products, Denver, CO will soon be a much brighter and better place. The company has worked together with some major companies and organizations across the country, including the University of Denver, Bridgestone, Lazer Lanes, Georgia State University, Maui Nix Surf Shop, the Kornfeld Companies, LLP, Estee Lauder and more. Each of these has spoken very positively about the company and its products and would highly recommend them.
