Hilton Head Island, SC - Hilton Head Travel Magazine, 101 Things To Do, features guides to all the exciting things to do on the South Carolina island.

Every issue of the free travel magazine 101 Things To Do, which comes out twice yearly (online and in print), is packed with fun things to do in Hilton Head for vacationers of all stripes. Adventurers, nature lovers, gourmands, shoppers, and photographers will all find much to do. The list includes 101 things to do, covering tourist attractions and activities on Hilton Head Island and Bluffton.

The magazine's mission is to "offer visitors to South Carolina ideas for spending their time here and an understanding of our state and its people." The magazine is the perfect resource for discovering all the great things happening on the island.

Making footsteps in the sand is the first thing to do at Hilton Head. That is because of the stunning beaches in the region. Millions of tourists flock to Hilton Head every year to enjoy its over 19 kilometers of beaches. Hilton Head Island is also home to several public beaches.

Hilton Head's history and culture are highlighted in the free Hilton Head Island Magazine, 101 Things To Do along with its beaches. Thus, the Coastal Discovery Museum is included in the 101 must-dos on the island. The natural environment and the people who lived in the Lowcountry before are all reflected in this spot.

The Coastal Discoveries Museum may be found on the 68-acre historic Honey Horn, which sits on the banks of Jarvis Creek and has been around for 300 years, making it one of the island's oldest and most historically significant sites. This plantation house on Hilton Head Island is the last of its kind. The butterfly habitat, exploration lab, and dragonfly pond are all located among some of the island's oldest buildings.

This April, the Art Market at Historic Honey Horn will also happen at the Coastal Discovery Museum. Over 90 brilliant performers from all over the country come to Hilton Head for this annual festival.
