

Vasectomy Reversal Success Allows Dr. Mark Hickman to Earn More Five Star Reviews

April 10, 2023

New Braunfels, TX - April 10, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Dr. Mark Hickman, MD, FACS, a microsurgery expert in New Braunfels, TX, is pleased to announce that his successes in his vasectomy reversal procedure continue to earn him five star reviews. In addition, he is offering two all-inclusive affordable options for the procedure for men in New Braunfels, including those who reside in other places in Texas and even those who live in other states. One option is available at $3,300 and this includes local anesthesia and an oral sedative. The other option costs $4,200 where the procedure is done under IV sedation, which is administered by a board-certified anesthesiologist.

In the above-mentioned review, Jorge B. said, "All the information I needed was given before the operation. Every step was explained and I was guided through the process. Very professional staff and Dr. Hickman was extremely confident with his performance. I will recommend to family and friends."

Dr. Hickman says, "Vasectomy reversal is not just for my male patients seeking an addition to their family. With an all-inclusive vasectomy reversal cost of $3,300 reversing a vasectomy is now being used to combat the onset of male depression following the original procedure. Patients have seen a return to their more virile days and a lifting of the "male fog".

Dr. Hickman has more than 26 years of experience as a premier minimally invasive surgeon. He has already performed over 1,300 procedures for reversing vasectomy. He has also "corrected" many vasectomy reversals done by other providers. Clients from all around the globe have confidence in Dr. Hickman because of his high success rate, dedication, and bedside manner.

The procedure involves the microsurgical repair of the vas deferens by using fine nylon suture and a powerful operating microscope. The goal of the procedure is to carefully align the lumen of the two ends of the vas deference and create a watertight closure to ensure a high success rate. Dr. Hickman will make a small incision on each side of the scrotal skin and look for the two ends of the vas deferens and free them from the surrounding scar tissue.

A sample of the fluid from the testicular end of the vas deferens is examined by Dr. Hickman to find out if it contains sperm. There are three possibilities. One possibility, which is the best possible situation, is that the fluid contains whole sperm. The second potential situation, which is quite typical, is that the fluid is thin and doesn't contain whole sperm but only sperm parts. The third situation is that the fluid is pasty, thick and doesn't contain any sperm or sperm parts.

The third scenario indicates an an obstruction called an epididymal blowout, which means a vasoepididymostomy will have to be performed in addition to the vasovasostomy. The method for vasoepididymostomy involves a microscopic invagination of the epididymal tube into the lumens of the vas deferens using 10-0 nylon sutures. There will be no additional cost to be charged even if both vasovasostomy and vasoepididymostomy have to be performed for the vasectomy reversal procedure.

Dr. Mark Hickman completed his residency training in general surgery during a period of five years at the University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio. It was during this time that he was introduced to the microsurgery techniques used by plastic and reconstructive surgeons. He immediately realized how the minimally invasive procedure can be used to offer a much better experience and better outcomes for his patients. Thus, he decided to specialize in microsurgery techniques, which he has chosen to use for his practice that focuses on offering vasectomy reversal to men who want to be able to father a child again.
