Fresno, CA ? Tree Service Fresno has announced a new partnership with local beekeepers to bring pollinator-friendly tree care services to the Fresno area. Through their collaboration, Tree Service Fresno and the beekeepers are working together to create a healthier ecosystem by providing pollinator-friendly tree care services that promote the health of bees and other beneficial insects.

Tree Service Fresno is a family owned business with over 20 years of experience in the tree care industry. They specialize in providing high-quality, professional tree care services such as pruning, trimming, fertilization, and pest control. In addition, as part of their commitment to environmental stewardship, they now offer pollinator-friendly tree care services that support the health of bees and other pollinators.

"We are delighted to partner with local beekeepers to provide our clients with pollinator-friendly tree care services. We strive to create a healthy environment for our community and recognize pollinators' important role in our ecosystem," said Diana Burton, CEO of Tree Service Fresno. "By providing these services, we hope to help support the growth of pollinators in our area and raise awareness about the importance of protecting their habitats."

As part of its partnership with local beekeepers, Tree Service Fresno is taking extra measures to ensure that its services are pollinator-friendly. They are using non-toxic products and eliminating pesticides whenever possible. They also use special techniques such as limiting the amount of pruning and improving soil health to help improve the health of trees and plants.

The company is also partnering with local research institutions to study how their pollinator-friendly practices can benefit bees and other pollinators in the region. Dr. Charles Smith, Lead Researcher at Fresno State University and co-founder of the Pollinator Conservation Initiative, said, "We are excited to be working with Tree Service Fresno on this project. By studying how their pollinator-friendly methods impact bee populations, we can gain valuable insights into how we can improve bee health across the region."

Tree Service Fresno is committed to creating a healthier environment for all its clients. It is proud to continue its partnership with local beekeepers to provide pollinator-friendly tree care services. They believe that working together can make a positive difference in their community and help protect the future of bees and other beneficial insects.
