Oceanside, CA - Oceanside Tree Service Experts, a leading tree care and maintenance provider in the area, has created an educational video series to help homeowners and businesses better understand the importance of tree care. The company's CEO, Hagery Frank, announced the series launch at a press conference earlier today.

The series is designed to raise awareness of basic tree care practices that can be used to keep trees healthy and safe. It also offers tips on properly pruning trees, identifying common diseases and pests, and spotting potential problems before they become more serious. In addition, the videos are intended to be entertaining and informative while providing viewers with the information they need to make informed decisions about their trees.

"We know that many people don't realize how important it is to give their trees the proper attention they deserve," said Hagery Frank, CEO of Oceanside Tree Service Experts. "Our goal with this video series is to teach viewers about basic tree care so they can be proactive in protecting their landscape investments and ensuring their trees remain healthy for years to come."

The series was developed by a team of experts led by Lead Researcher Dr. Joseph Smith. Dr. Smith is an arborist and biologist who has been studying trees for over 15 years. He has worked on projects worldwide, from Australia to Africa, and his research has been published in numerous scientific journals.

"Trees are vital for our environment and our planet's health," said Dr. Smith. "We want to ensure that people have the information they need to care for their trees properly so that we can all work together to preserve and protect these living organisms for future generations."

The video series will be available on Oceanside Tree Service Experts' social media channels, including YouTube, Instagram, and Facebook. The series will be released in three installments over the coming weeks, and each episode will include practical advice and demonstrations of key concepts.

In addition to the video series, Oceanside Tree Service Experts will offer virtual consultations to anyone seeking additional guidance on tree care and maintenance. Interested parties can contact the company directly to schedule a consultation with one of their certified arborists.
