Pflugerville, TX - Pflugerville Tree Experts, a premier tree care company based in Pflugerville, TX, has released their new educational game app, "Tree Tamer." The app is designed to teach children about different tree species and their importance to the environment.

The app was created with the help of a lead researcher, Dr. Rosemary Senior-Jones, who has been researching and studying trees for over 30 years. "From our research, we have seen that there is a huge gap in understanding among children regarding trees and their importance to the environment," said Dr. Senior-Jones. "We wanted to create an engaging and fun way for children to learn more about trees, so they can start to understand how vital they are to our planet."

Tree Tamer is designed to be accessible to children of all ages and abilities, allowing them to explore the world of trees through an interactive game. Through the game, players will be able to identify different tree species, learn about their unique characteristics, and understand why it is vital to preserve them. Players will also be able to collect virtual coins as they progress through the game, which can be used to purchase items from the in-app store.

The app was developed under the guidance of Turnip Djuan, CEO of Pflugerville Tree Experts. "At Pflugerville Tree Experts, we strive to educate our community about the importance of trees and inspire people to take action in preserving them," said Djuan. "Tree Tamer allows us to do this in a fun and interactive way that appeals to children across all ages and backgrounds."

Tree Tamer is available on both iOS and Android devices. The app is currently available in English, but plans are underway to make it available in other languages soon.

In addition to introducing the app, Pflugerville Tree Experts has launched an online educational resource center offering additional information on trees and their importance to the planet. The resource center provides comprehensive information on various tree species and tips for making homes greener places. It also includes downloadable activity packs that parents can use to teach their children about trees.

The company encourages people from all walks of life to join the fight against climate change by participating in tree-planting and conservation efforts. "It's up to everyone to do their part in preserving our planet's forests," said Djuan. "By educating ourselves and our children about trees and their importance, we can ensure that future generations enjoy a greener planet."
