La Jolla, CA ? Music and nature lovers alike will be excited to hear the announcement by La Jolla Tree Service Experts that they are introducing a new service allowing individuals to create custom tree-based musical instruments. This unique new service is being made available to the public following months of research and development led by Radford Cliffort, CEO of La Jolla Tree Service Experts.

"We have been hard at work developing this innovative new product that combines two of our great passions ? music and nature," said Cliffort. "Our team has spent countless hours researching and perfecting this process, and we are proud to offer customers the opportunity to create their own custom tree-based musical instruments."

The process begins with selecting the right type of wood for the instrument ? typically from a tree that has been recently cut or trimmed. The wood is then carefully crafted into the desired shape and size before being treated with special oils and lacquers to ensure durability. Finally, components such as strings and frets are added, transforming it into a fully functioning musical instrument.

The instruments can produce a wide range of sounds, depending on the type of wood used and the customer's individual specifications. Customers can design their instruments or choose from various pre-made designs, with options suitable for any playing style or genre.

Lead Researcher and Product Designer, Sebastian Wagner, commented on the creation process. "When crafting these instruments, we take great care to ensure each is unique. We strive to create something special for each customer, so each instrument has its distinct character and sound."

La Jolla Tree Service Experts is offering this innovative new service in partnership with local musician, Tyler Blackwood. Blackwood is actively involved in every step of the process, from creating the initial designs to assisting customers in selecting the perfect combination of components.

Blackwood commented on his involvement in the project. "This project has been an incredibly rewarding experience for me. I have always been passionate about music and nature, and partnering with La Jolla Tree Service Experts has allowed me to combine the two. In addition, seeing people so excited about creating their custom musical instruments is thrilling!"
