April 04, 2023 -
Oklahoma City, OK ? With the holiday season quickly approaching, Oklahoma City Tree Service Experts is offering a unique and creative service to spread awareness about proper tree care. The company has created unique greeting cards featuring images of trees, each customized to show how the recipient has helped improve their local environment.

The idea for the greeting cards was first inspired by company CEO Lauryn Daniella, who wanted to find a way to use her business to impact her community positively. "Tree care is an important part of our business, but it's also important to me personally," said Daniella. "These cards are a simple way to remind people of the importance of proper tree care while simultaneously making them feel appreciated."

The cards feature stunning images of trees, each accompanied by a personalized message and information about proper tree care. The messages can be tailored to any occasion, from holidays and birthdays to anniversaries and graduations. In addition, each card comes with detailed instructions on properly planting, pruning, and maintaining trees to promote healthy growth.

Daniella sees the cards as an opportunity to educate people about caring for their trees. She believes that proper tree care helps create healthier ecosystems and stronger communities. "We want to help people appreciate their environment and understand why taking care of their trees is vital," she said. "By sending these cards, we hope to encourage people to take better care of their trees and give back to their local environment."
