Fort Worth, TX - In celebration of Earth Day's 50th anniversary on April 22nd, 2023, Fort Worth Tree Services, a local tree service and arborist company, is gearing up to donate trees to local parks throughout the Fort Worth area.

The company's owner and CEO, Maranly Larabiosa, has announced that the company will be donating over 500 trees of various species to select parks across the city. "We are thrilled to have this opportunity to give back to the community and bring more green spaces to Fort Worth's parks. We believe planting trees is essential to environmental conservation efforts, and we want to do our part in helping preserve nature for future generations," says Ms. Larabiosa.

Ms. Larabiosa continues, "Our mission is to promote the health and longevity of trees in our community. As part of this commitment, we want to ensure our communities have access to vibrant and healthy habitats and green spaces to connect with nature and enjoy its beauty."

This initiative is part of Fort Worth Tree Services' more extensive sustainable growth and development plan. The plan includes expanding their services such as tree trimming, removal, and transplanting and developing partnerships with other organizations to provide educational programs about the importance of tree care and maintenance.

The Fort Worth Tree Services team is passionate about ensuring that the forests of North Texas remain vibrant and healthy environments for wildlife, recreation, and enjoyment. They also understand the importance of urban forestry, especially in a city like Fort Worth, where it can help reduce air pollution and improve air quality.

In addition to donating trees on Earth Day, Fort Worth Tree Services also plans to host a free workshop for local homeowners and business owners interested in learning more about maintaining and caring for their trees properly. The workshop will cover topics such as choosing suitable tree species for specific climates, proper pruning techniques, fertilization needs, and pest control methods.

"We are committed to protecting the environment through education and action, starting with giving back to our local parks. On April 22nd, we look forward to seeing these trees planted in parks around Fort Worth that will add beauty and life to the city's green spaces," says Ms. Larabiosa.
