April 13, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Signmaster Systems, a UK based supplier of printers and printer-related items, would like to comment on the Roland LEC2 S-Series printer's recent rise in popularity. The Roland LEC2 S-Series is an easy-to-use printer that produces high quality prints and enables the user to do more with less.

According to the company, the printer can print direct to substrate, meaning it can print directly on a range of materials, including Foamex, acrylic, aluminium composite, card, wood and more. It allows the user to print onto a much wider range of products than other printers, in fact, and Signmaster has seen the printer being used for a diverse range of applications. This is due to its 200mm max media thickness and the fact that the printer is available in both flatbed and belt models.

One of the things that make the Roland LEC2 so popular is the fact that it is so accessible. Signmaster says in a review of the LEC2, "It's perfect for new users and experienced users. Almost anybody can use it! This is due to how easy the machine controls are and also how easy the software is to use. Yet it's powerful enough to be used in a production setting. It's familiar and easy to use, due to it using the same menu system and the same Versaworks RIP as all the other Roland machines, if you have used any Roland machine in the past you can use this machine too, no complicated menus and RIP to re-learn here!?"

They add, "It's also the perfect choice for when space can be tight. It has a small footprint as far as UV flatbeds go, much less than other similar machines making it less intrusive and doesn't take up all your print room space, which let's face it is a huge plus as space is usually a premium in a production environment nowadays."

The Roland LEC2 is just one of the many high-end printers available at Signmaster Systems. While the product may be very popular due to its versatility and ease of use, Signmaster Systems has a wide range of alternatives from top brands like Roland and Mimaki. The company is considered by many to be the only source necessary for everything from new hardware to inks and media. At Signmaster Systems, they are proud of their ability to go the extra mile when it comes to supplying their customers with the very best printers and printer accessories on the market. In addition, Signmaster offers expert and honest advice, training and installation and access to an experienced team of repair technicians.

The company has traded for over 20 years, and they have long since developed a strong customer base as a result of their dedication, quality products and great service. There are a number of benefits associated with being a long-standing Signmaster customer, and some of the reviews the company has received from their customers outline exactly what these benefits are.

Alex A. says about the company, ?Really impressed with Signmaster Systems and everyone involved in the sale and installation of our new UV Printing machine. I can?t recommend them highly enough. Special thanks to Jay Fleming in Sales. Jay is professional, friendly, helpful and knowledgeable. Jay really went above and beyond to look after us and to make sure we were happy, comfortable and confident with our new machine. Definitely a 5-Star Plus level of service from Jay and the rest of the staff at Signmaster Systems!?
