

eTT Aviation and Motulus.aero Announce Joint Collaboration

April 11, 2023

April 11, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

eTT Aviation and Motulus.aero are excited to announce a joint collaboration that will deliver a strong integration between eTTs? Flight and Crew Management System (FCMS) and Motulus? suite of planning optimization solutions (Motuplan). For both companies, this collaboration will create an enhanced product proposition, and ultimately, significant opportunities to create additional value for customers.

?When we met Motulus we were impressed with what they have developed to date in helping airlines,? said Tom LaJoie CEO of eTT Aviation. ?We are looking forward to leveraging their optimization skills initially for developing efficient trip pairings and then exploring other areas where our customers will find value in optimization.?

Motulus CEO Benjamin Algoet comments, ?Motulus.aero is excited to join forces with eTT by combining our innovative (crew scheduling, tail assignment and network) optimization solutions with the excellent eTT software to serve airlines in the Americas.?

About Motulus.aero

Based in Antwerp, Belgium, Motulus.aero was formed in 2018 by a team with deep expertise in mathematics and software development; whose particular focus is building groundbreaking optimization products. Having deployed products to a number of industries Motulus had an original mission in aviation to develop innovative products for airline crew resource scheduling problems. Following successful implementations with two European airlines the team's expertise has now been stretched to solve network optimization and tail assignment problems.
