1-Jobs, a business in Blaxhall, United Kingdom, has announced that they have recently relaunched their website with new content for helping people find jobs. The new design means they are able not just to help people find a new job, but also offer them various other tools and information relating to job searches.

"Finding a new job is about more than just spotting a vacancy and putting in an application," says Feli Ernest from 1-Jobs. "It is about knowing what you want and what is out there and what is expected of you to be considered for one of those jobs in the first place. We have released a wealth of information on our new site to help people be empowered with the knowledge they need to be successful in their applications."

The content listed on the website, which can be found at <http://www.1-jobs.com/>, is completely free and highly informative. It includes information on what some of the top jobs in the country are. It also provides people with advice on how to find their own personal dream job. They have also included various tips in terms of writing CVs, completing application forms and how to behave during interviews.

The work they have done has been incredibly well received by people looking for work. "The information provided by 1 Jobs is absolutely invaluable," says Peter Simpson. "I poured over their information and applied it to my own personal situation. Within a few weeks, I was finally able to get that promotion I had been aiming for. The information provided essentially lifted a curtain that had been placed before my eyes. I can't thank the team enough for their informative content."

1-Jobs has a clear vision and mission. They aim to create a world in which everybody is able to be the best they can be, by making sure opportunities for collaboration and action are identified and used. "Our professed mission is to bridge the gap between goal and action by connecting ideas, people and resources together," adds Feli Ernest. "1-Jobs.com empowers jobseekers to strive and progress to higher levels in their organizations and careers and make meaningful contributions to society."
