

Window Cleaning Company Launches New Services In Las Vegas

December 09, 2015

December 09, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Direct Window Cleaning has announced the availability of new cleaning services for both homes and business establishments in the Las Vegas area. The company provides services where they clean both the exterior and interior of windows. In addition, they can also remove scratches and graffiti.

A spokesperson for the company states, "Dirty windows will affect how people view your home or business. If you are by chance trying to sell, you could lower your value just by not keeping your windows clean."

The people behind Direct Window Cleaning have more than 10 years of experience in the industry, and the company spokesperson states that they can clean any type of window, ensuring that it makes the home or business look better from the inside and outside.

"People actually pay attention to windows more than you think," states the spokesperson. "Particularly for businesses, it's important to keep those windows clean as many customers will actually decide not to do business with you if they are grimy or dirty."

The cleaning company will be offering a wide range of window cleaning services for their residential and commercial customers, and at a price that the company states is "very competitive." They state that cleaner windows not only improves the look and value of a home, but also attracts more customers and visitors to retail and business establishments, and improves the overall opinion of what potential customers think of a business.

In addition to their services launch, the company has launched a new Twitter page, which can be seen at <https://twitter.com/directwindow>. The company states that customers can keep up with promotions and other news on the Twitter page.

A Facebook page for the company has also been created. Seen at <https://www.facebook.com/Direct-Window-Cleaning-1656112254637903/>, customers can learn more about the company, keep up with special service rates and seasonal hours, and reach out to customer service with questions or issues.

More information about the new window cleaning company can also be seen on their official website. The company spokesperson states that potential customers can contact them through their website to learn more about their realm of services or to book a window cleaning appointment anywhere in Las Vegas or the surrounding areas.
