Five Star Chiropractor, a Las Vegas, Nevada based chiropractic clinic, has announced that they have hired an industry expert who boasts of more than 10 years of experience in the field. The clinic explains that the newly hired chiropractor brings experience in areas that they have not been able to offer to their patients before this time.

"It was a win-win situation for us all," states a spokesperson for the clinic. "Our newly appointed doctor specializes in spinal disorders, which is something that we have always treated, but have not had a specialist in."

The new doctor has more than 10 years of experience in his field, covering a number of spinal issues such as sciatica and arthritis of the spine in addition to various causes of neck and leg pain. The clinic in general also covers a number of sports injuries and provides counseling to patients on exercise, nutrition, and lifestyle changes that they can make to help alleviate future pain.

"Our new chiropractor is certified in spinal treatment, but can also provide information related to other injuries that will provide overall care for our patients," states the spokesperson for the clinic.

The company has a Twitter page where patients can get updates on information regarding the office as well as tips and advice for healthier lifestyles for those living with chronic pain. The clinic's Twitter page can be seen at <https://twitter.com/5starchiroprac>.

The clinic also urges those in pain to call and schedule a consultation to speak with the new chiropractor, to avoid any issues that could cause irreparable damage. The clinic spokesperson states that many patients are often afraid to visit a chiropractic clinic for fear of the unknown. He states that an initial consultation will help to alleviate any fears or worries about treatment and will give the patient an overall idea of how their therapies work.

The clinic also has a Facebook page, which can be seen at
